Full job description

Your new company

This exciting Country Manager, Procurement ANZ role is with a Global brand based in their new offices in Sydney.

Your new role

In your new position you will be managing multiple indirect categories across the group including HR, Professional Services, travel, cleaning and catering. Along with strategic procurement you will also be managing social procurement projects including the Modern Slavery and Reconciliation Action plans. You will liaise with multiple internal stakeholders across the business to achieve business outcomes across the indirect categories mentioned.

What you'll need to succeed

For this role you will need to have previous indirect procurement experience preferably adapting global plans into the Australian market. You will have excellent stakeholder engagement experience and the ability to manage business expectations and deadlines.

What you'll get in return

You will have the opportunity to work with a Global brand with career development and global procurement exposure within the business. Along with an attractive salary package, hybrid working is also available with the team working from home and in their new office in North Sydney.
